Reckless Commie Attack Overruns Leatherneck Posts

Number of Marines Lost In Bloody Battle Not Known As Yet, But They Drew Own Artillery On Themselves to Stop the Reds

SEOUL, AP—About 2,000 Chinese drove U. S. Marines off two key Western Front outposts today in a reckless assault even as Allied and Communist truce officers met to wire out last barriers to a cease-fire in Korea.

Attacking behind ear-shattering artillery fire, two reinforced Red battalions battled up the twin hills of East Berlin and Berlin north-east of the Panmunjom truce site. The Red victory—won with staggering casualties—gave the Communists full control of a vital hill area made up of Outposts Reno, Carson and Vegas, East Berlin and Berlin.

Allied observers speculated the Reds grabbed the Berlin outposts in the belief no effort would be made to retake them with an armistice apparently imminent.

A burst of machine-gun fire signaled the end of the Marine resistance to the savagely-charging Reds, who drove up the slopes through their own shell-fire. Leatherneck casualties were not disclosed.

Allied warplanes roared off later in the day and pounded the outposts mercilessly.

The fighting on the western sector hills was the most violent along the 150-mile front, although smaller scale but equally fierce action flared along the tense Kumsong sector in east-central Korea.

There, South Korean troops attempting to regain ground lost in last week's massive Red assault were pushed back slightly.

A Chinese battalion—some 750 men—hit the ROKs as they advanced cautiously near the junction of the Kumsong and Pukhan rivers, just south of Lookout Mountain.

It was the farthest northward penetration of the South Koreans in their slow-moving march in the 20-mile Kumsong Bulge sector that was flattened out by the 80,000-man Red attack last week.

The 8th Army reported 33 skirmishes—mostly small patrol clashes—along the swelling front during the night. Temperatures soared to almost 100 degrees Monday after a high of 97 Sunday—the hottest day of the year.

Air Force and Navy planes had a big day Sunday. Sabre jets bagged nine Communist MIGs—including their 1,000th destruction of the war—and the Navy struck one of its heaviest blows of the war, the services reported.

American Sabre pilots who flew to MIG Alley deep in North Korea also damaged three of the Russian-made fighter planes and probably destroyed another, the Air Force said.

The 1,000th Red plane—second in Capt. S. J. "Mac" McCarty's list—was credited to Capt. Lonnie Moore of Fort Walton, Fla., who now has 10 MIG kills for a double-ace rating.

The Air Force said the total Red plane bag by Sunday night stood at 1,008 compared with Allied combat losses of 108 planes, 56 of them Sabres. The figures were for air-to-air combat.

For the third time in the 37-month war, the Navy reported it sent four carriers on massive aerial blows in support of Allied ground troops.

The Navy said planes with the potential of five Air Force wings swept off from the carriers Lake Champlain, Princeton, Boxer and Philippine Sea in the Sea of Japan, hitting Red gun positions and troops with bombs, napalm fire bombs and rockets.

In reporting Monday's western sector fighting, the 8th Army disclosed that the U. S. First Marine Division had been back at the front since July 8 after being in reserve.

The Marines returned to the battle lines three weeks ago, just in time to slam back Red assaults on the same outposts of East Berlin and Berlin.

The Communists shelled the hills savagely just before midnight Sunday, then charged through flying shells.

In a last desperate message, the Marines called in artillery on their own positions in an attempt to halt the onrushing Chinese.

Two hours after the Red big guns opened up, both outposts fell. The Reds later were seen carrying their own dead and wounded down the bloodied slopes.

Lehman Terms McCarthy Method As Demagoguery

WASHINGTON, AP—Sen. Lehman (D-Ill.) told the Senate today that McCarthy (R-Wis.) today was using "pure demagoguery" in blaming anti-semitism for attacks on two staff aides, Roy Cohn and David Schine.

Lehman said he was speaking as a Jew in denouncing McCarthy's statement, made on a television program (Meet the Press) yesterday that criticism of Cohn and Schine was based on anti-semitism.

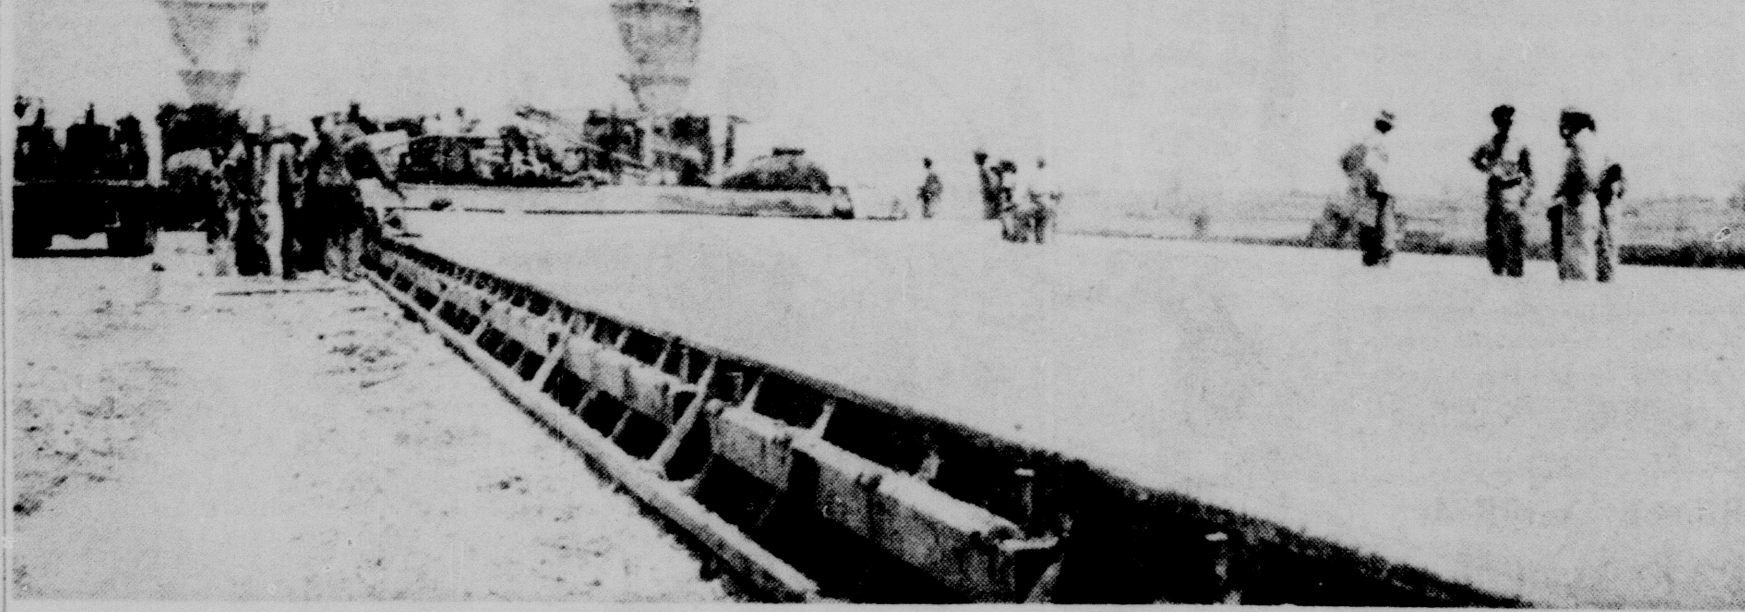

Lehman said he was one of those who had criticized "the antics of these two brash young men," and that he felt many others of Jewish faith shared his belief that the staff aides "have been doing our country and the cause of anti-Communism great harm here and abroad."

"I am very certain that most members of my religious faith, not as Jews, but as Americans, are anything but proud of those two young men," Lehman asserted, adding:

"To brand criticism of them as 'anti-semitism' is pure and errant demagoguery, raising an ugly symbol in defense of indefensible conduct."

Lehman said he didn't think it was necessary for him to absolve Sen. Monroney (D-Okl.), who criticized Cohn and Schine in the Senate, "of this cheap charge."

He called Monroney "one of the fine characters of the Senate, free up and our men in protective cover," said the lieutenant, as he sat on the edge of his cot at a

Matthews Gets Hearing Over Clergy Charge

Un-Am. Activities Group to Hear Man Ousted From His Job

WASHINGTON, AP—The House Un-American Activities Committee voted today to grant a hearing to J. B. Matthews, ousted from a Senate committee job, because of an article he wrote criticizing part of the clergy. Matthews had asked to be heard.

Chairman Velde (R-Ill.) told newsmen no decision was made as to when Matthews will be called.

In a formal statement, Velde reported that Matthews will be told his testimony will be limited to the presentation of facts relating to his assertion that "the largest single group supporting the Communist apparatus in the United States today is composed of Protestant clergymen."

That article set off a public furor. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, called Matthews "a star spangled American" and at first refused to accept his resignation as executive director of the subcommittee staff.

Later he did so and Matthews then petitioned Velde asking to appear before the House committee so that he could document his statement.

Velde told newsmen he personally does not believe Matthews will be heard until sometime in October.

The chairman declined to report any details regarding the vote. He also refused to say whether there were any dissenting votes or if political party lines were followed. There are five Republicans and four Democrats on the committee.

Velde's previous suggestions that the group might sometime look into the records of individual clergymen drew some sharp criticism, particularly from Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of Washington, D. C.

The Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, chairman of the National Council of Churches' Committee on Maintenance of American Freedom, said yesterday that revisions in its procedure are "a wholly inadequate answer to the need for reform of certain Un-American methods and procedures followed . . . in the past."

He wrote Velde that the committee's methods "bear too much resemblance to the techniques of J. B. Matthews to satisfy the minds and consciences of a responsible group of clergymen and laymen charged with the duty of studying ways of maintaining our cherished freedoms."

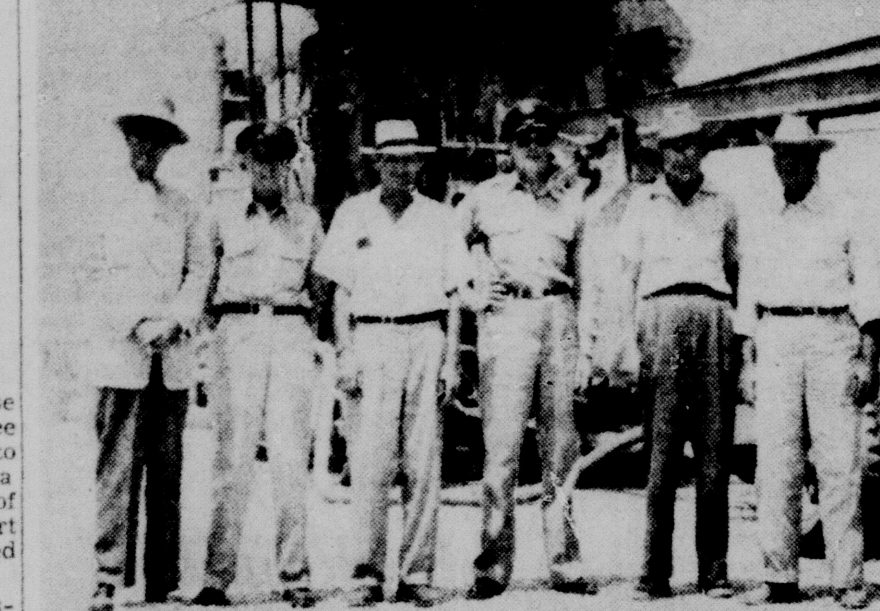

Bishop Oxnam, appearing on an NBC radio program yesterday, said that "no Protestant nation in the world has been infiltrated by communism," and he added:

"The church has done more to combat communism than all the congressional committees put together."

He appeared with two other Methodist clergymen, Bishop F. Gerald Enslay of Des Moines and Bishop William C. Martin of Dallas.

Bishop Enslay, without naming names, said, "Political adventures of our times are playing on the fear in human minds," and that the church must fight back with an aggressive evangelism which will "make men so afraid of God that they won't be afraid of anything else."

He said he plans to prepare a counter-affidavit, seeking to determine if the records he asked are not in Truman's possession then where they are.

Court Quashes Summons Served On Harry Truman

KANSAS CITY, AP—A subpoena served on former President Harry S. Truman to explain why the United States entered the Korean conflict was quashed today in U.S. District Court.

The subpoena, served by Fyke Farmer, Nashville, Tenn., attorney and leader in a world peace movement, had directed the former President to produce certain records of his administration.

But Judge Albert A. Ridge held that Truman had submitted an affidavit to the court saying he was not now in possession of these documents and that they are in control of the government.

At same time the judge stayed the taking of a deposition from the former President, held in federal court in Nashville relies on a motion to dismiss the damage suit brought by Farmer against the government.

Farmer contends the federal government cannot collect income taxes from him for war purposes and contends the Korean War resulted from "illegal policies" and "misuse of the United Nations organization."

Truman did not appear at the hearing, which was held in federal judge's chambers. He was represented by Dick H. Woods, Farmer appeared in person to argue his case.

After the hearing, Farmer said he was not contemplating an appeal now, but has "something else in mind."

He said he plans to prepare a counter-affidavit, seeking to determine if the records he asked are not in Truman's possession then where they are.

Infant Suffocates In Parents' Bed

LONACONING, Md. (AP) — Mrs. Herbert R. Staup Jr. got up at 6 a.m. yesterday to feed her 6-month-old son Herbert Jr.

Instead of returning to the infant to his crib, Mrs. Staup placed him between her husband and herself in their big bed.

At 7:45 a.m., when the Staups arose, their baby son was dead. Dr. H. V. Deming, medical examiner, ruled the child smothered to death accidentally.

Ike Renews His Offer to Send Food to Germany

WASHINGTON, AP—President Eisenhower today renewed his offer to send food directly to Soviet-occupied Eastern Germany if the Soviets will reconsider their refusal of 10 days ago to permit it.

The White House made public a letter from the President to Chancellor Adenauer of Western Germany, dated today, in which Eisenhower said the United States will continue to make clear to the Soviet government that the offer of food "was motivated solely by humanitarian impulses."

He said the food is available if that government wishes to permit its entry into the Soviet zone of occupation.

Eisenhower's letter was in reply to one from Adenauer, dated July 13, and also made public by the White House today.

Adenauer had offered to "do everything" to make food available "in the most effective way possible" to East Germans.

Food already is moving to West Germany for the East Germans. A sizeable relief program is under way in the Berlin area where East Germans can step across the border and pick up the gifts.

Eisenhower told the Chancellor: "Since it is our joint purpose to aid the people of Eastern Germany, we are determined to place the food in the hands of the occupation authorities of that area have created. I have directed the secretary of state and the director for mutual security to place quantities of these food stuffs at your disposal for use in relieving the suffering of the people of Eastern Germany in the best available manner."

K. C. Has Its Biggest Cattle Run of Year

KANSAS CITY, AP—Kansas City had its biggest run of cattle of the year today.

Receipts were estimated at 19,000 with recent strong prices being credited with the increased offerings.

Police Kill 5-Foot Prowler-Racer Snake

Turned out the prowler was a racer snake that raced too far into the house.

Rescue Teams Save Japanese In Big Flood

Police Estimate Toll at 273 Dead; Planes Drop Food

TOKYO, AP—Thousands of Japanese were rescued today from debris-littered floodwaters as ground, sea and air teams worked feverishly to cut the human toll in the nation's second great flood disaster in three weeks.

The sudden flood that started with cloudburst rains last Friday swallowed whole villages at Wakayama on central Honshu Island's Pacific coast about 200 miles southwest of Tokyo.

National police headquarters here re-estimated the toll at 273 dead, 433 injured and 2,033 missing.

Earlier, police said more than 6,000 were dead or missing, but a spokesman reported later those totals listed many duplications caused by chaotic communications.

More than 2,000 persons stranded on rooftops or trapped in flooded homes were plucked to safety by rescue teams searching the swirling waters.

U. S. Air Force planes crisscrossed the flood scene, dropping tons of food to stranded persons, while Japanese ships and ground forces scoured the area for survivors.

The rains stopped Sunday after two days of cloudbursts sent three mountain streams thundering down narrow valleys.

Flash floods hit valley villages—some before sleeping residents could flee.

Although skies began to clear, the waters to recede on central Honshu, new rains hit in the Tokyo area and the rivers there rose steadily.

Thousands worked during the night to plug gaps at river dikes with sandbags.

At Wakayama, Japanese wept as they were reunited with relatives they thought dead.

One young couple, picked up after clinging to debris for eight hours, told how they lost their two children. Shizuo Morimoto, 31, said:

"We woke up and heard the roaring waters bursting the dike at 7 a.m. Saturday. Our house began floating toward the sea at 8 a.m. At the river mouth, surf engulfed us. When we came to the surface, my 4-year-old boy was gone."

Our 7-month-old baby was washed away."

Senators Consider Staging Futile Fight On AF Fund Reduction

WASHINGTON, AP—Some senators talked today of staging an admittedly futile fight on the Senate floor for some of the five billion cut from new Air Force funds by the Eisenhower administration.

"We know we can't win it but if we make a good showing we may prevent the additional reductions voted by the House," said one senator who refused quotation by name.

Secretary of Defense Wilson, with President Eisenhower's public backing, has won every round in the congressional battle over the reduction in funds and size of the Air Force, from the budget recommendations of ex-President Truman.

The Senate has rejected every one of the Truman recommendations.

Truce Teams Meet In Secret 9 Times; Armistice Is Near

No Time Set for Formal Signing, But Reds Rush Work On Hut Where It'll Take Place; Fighting Will Stop 12 Hours After Truce

PANMUNJOM, AP—Teams of Allied and Communist officers—including for the first time the men who would oversee a cease-fire—worked in nine secret sessions today on the final details of a Korea armistice.

Two staff officer sessions were set for 10 a. m. Tuesday (7 p. m. Monday, CST).

The Reds, meanwhile, put the finishing touches on a large hut to be used for signing the historic document which would end the three years of fighting.

There was no official indication just when the armistice would be signed, but some observers said it could be within a week. Fighting would end 12 hours after the signing.

A month-long deadlock in the negotiations was broken with a Communist announcement Sunday that the Reds were ready to prepare for the signing.

Three U. S. members of the Military Armistice Commission flew here unexpectedly for the first time and met for 1 hour, 30 minutes with Communist members of the commission.

The commission, composed of top officers from the opposing armies, would control the buffer zone between the two forces.

The Red and Allied commission members discussed "suggested arrangements" which the (the Reds) will consider and probably come back with their proposal," said Navy Capt. B. M. Coleman, one of the U. S. members. Another meeting was planned, but no time was given.

The speeded tempo of Monday's sessions—running from 10 a. m. to 8:05 p. m. (6:05 a. m. CST)—heightened optimism for an early signing.

Total time spent by five different teams, including interpreters and liaison officers, was seven hours, 42 minutes.

The main truce delegations presumably are awaiting a call from the lower level staff officers to set a date for the signing.

Both sides quickened the pace toward a truce signing in the wake of the sudden Communist announcement yesterday that they were ready to go ahead with final preparations in return for Allied assurances that South Korea would abide by a cease-fire.

But South Korean Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai hinted more opposition from Syngman Rhee's government might be in the wind. He said the Communist agreement contained "many traps."

He said it showed the Reds intend to take "all South Korea by subversive activity and by liquidating the Army which we have built so painstakingly and with so much expense."

An unnamed Republic of Korea spokesman said Allied assurances meant the U. N. "had lost the war."

In other developments: 1. The Peiping radio announced that Czechoslovakian and Polish delegates who would serve on a four-nation Armistice Supervisory Commission arrived in the Red China capital. The Swedish and Swiss delegates already are in Tokyo.

2. The Reds sent 200 North Korean and Chinese troops to resume work on the "signing building" at Panmunjom. Construction was suspended after Rhee freed 27,000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners from Allied camps. Communist Correspondent Alan Wainington of the London Daily Worker said the building should be finished Thursday.

3. Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander in Tokyo, hailed the Red go-ahead as "most encouraging," and said it "should lead to an early signing." However, he said some details remained to be worked out.

4. The Peiping radio, the voice of Red China, said the Communist agreement to go ahead with truce signing preparations came after "resolute efforts by the (Red) Korean and Chinese side in the past one month."

5. One group of Allied and Communist staff officers carried rolled-in maps—presumably needed in fixing the new demarcation line for a 2½-mile buffer zone which will separate the opposing armies 72 hours after a truce. It will reflect gains of the Communists in the matter.

6. That the U. N. Command will not give any support to South Korea, including equipment and supplies, if the ROK took aggressive action and the Reds fought back.

7. That there "is no time limit to the armistice." (The Communists had noted in the secret sessions that President Syngman Rhee was quoted as saying he would observe a truce for only 90 days after a political conference meets to discuss Korean settlement.)

8. That the U. N. Command will protect all personnel of North Korea, Chinese and neutral nation representatives who enter South Korea to supervise an armistice terms.

9. That the U. N. Command will "to the limits of its ability" see that armistice terms are observed. (On this point, the Reds quoted a letter from Gen. Mark W. Clark, U. N. Commander, June 29.)

10. That the U. N. Command "bears an irretrievable responsibility" to recover the 27,000 North Korean war prisoners released by the South Korean government; the Reds noted that Clark said June 29 that his command "is continuing" efforts to recapture the prisoners but that the Allied truce delegation decided to report further on the matter.

11. That the Allies would turn over to the five-nation repatriation commission the remaining anti-Communist war prisoners.

The Communists declared they were quoting from the official record so "that the people of the world may know the assurances."

Merry-Go-Round-- Wants to Repeat Balloon Messages Behind Curtain

By DREW PEARSON

(Editor's note — Drew Pearson, who one month ago urged President Eisenhower to send surplus food to East Germany and who called the turn on Communist reaction, today comes up with another idea for winning the cold war.)

WASHINGTON—Two years ago this summer, Harold Stassen, the present Mutual Security Administrator, C. D. Jackson, now Ike's psychological warfare expert, and I were on the German border sending propaganda balloons into Czechoslovakia.

Large weather balloons, about four feet in diameter, stuffed with 3,000 leaflets each, were filled with hydrogen in a wheat field three miles from the border and floated up and into Czechoslovakia. The winds—which in the upper altitudes always blow from west to east—we had timed in advance to drop the balloons into the chief cities of Prague and Pilsen between 6 a.m. and 8 a.m., when people were going to work. By picking our nights and working most of the night with German civilian crews inflating the balloons, we were able to launch about 2,000 balloons a night; and over a two-week period we put about 11,000,000 leaflets into Czechoslovakia.

The leaflets carried merely a message of friendship. They told the Czechoslovak people that the people of the western world had not forgotten them and expressed the hope that eventually they might be free.

Preventing War

This was purely an experiment, and some officials in the State Department frowned on it. For over three years I had been urging that we get behind the Iron Curtain with this type of propaganda. The only way we could avoid war with Russia, I said, was to make sure the people behind the Iron Curtain were our friends. If enough of them realized we were friendly, it would be difficult for them to fight in the first place and, in the second place, would cause trouble for the Red army even if war did finally come.

General Omar Bradley heartily agreed. But several State Department officials, with the exception of Ed Barrett, then assistant secretary of state in charge of propaganda, were opposed. They argued that we should not encourage restlessness behind the Iron Curtain until we were absolutely ready to free the people.

However, the Czechoslovak experiment seemed to hit pay dirt. The American embassy reported that the freedom-friendship leaflets were tucked up on telegraph poles, put in the baggage racks of passenger trains, mimeographed, even surreptitiously placed on Communist bulletin boards. They swept over Czechoslovakia to such an extent that Premier Antonin Zapotocky made a speech on the floor of parliament denouncing them, and the official Communist newspaper, Torba, carried a front-page cartoon showing Harry Truman releasing balloons.

Of course, Harry Truman had nothing to do with them. But the best way for the Communists to combat the balloons was to claim that they came from the U.S. government, not from private Americans, as was the case.

Food Balloons

I have no way of knowing whether the trial of Vice-Premier Rudolf Slansky and other Czech leaders, the riots in Pilsen, and the general restlessness in Czechoslovakia were encouraged by our freedom balloons or not. But I am convinced that now is the time to repeat the experiment—in a different way—in East Germany, perhaps later in Czechoslovakia, Poland, and other countries.

It has already been demonstrated that President Eisenhower's offer of food has had terrific repercussions behind the Iron Curtain. We were a little slow in acting on this suggestion, but even so, Communist leaders behind the Iron Curtain have been boiling with rage ever since the offer was made.

And East Berliners have been crossing into West Berlin, as I predicted they would, to get even the food sold them at cheap prices by suburban Mayor Willy Brandt.

However, it seems to me the time has come to go one step further and send food packages into East Germany by balloon. Many parts of East Germany are, of course, some distance from Berlin. Furthermore, the effect would be electrifying.

Food balloons are not too difficult to launch. The four-foot balloons we sent over Czechoslovakia carried three and a half pounds. CARE, which has done a fine job of feeding a good part of Europe, already has several tons of packages in West Berlin. Furthermore they are already wrapped in waterproof material such as housewives use in their deep-freezers.

These packages sent over the border into East Germany by balloon at the rate of 1,000 a night, each balloon containing a message, not from the U.S. government, but from the American people, would have a tremendous effect on people behind the Iron Curtain.

Imagine what would happen if you were living in some East German village from which most of the food had been removed by Communist collectivization, and a balloon were found in the street some morning carrying 10 pounds of food with a message of friendship from the Lions Club of Detroit or the Kiwanis Club of Bakersfield, Calif., or the Rotary Club of Charleston, W. Va.

You would not only jump with joy but you would have a mighty kindly feeling toward those thoughtful Lions in Detroit or those generous Kiwanians in Bakersfield or the Rotarians in Charleston. And you would have exactly the reverse feeling toward the officials in Russia who had removed your food.

Some people joke about the Rotarians, the Lions and the Kiwanians. But I who saw what they did when they rolled up their sleeves for the Friendship Train, have an exactly opposite idea. People in Europe are a little suspicious of governments, but they appreciate people-to-people friendship.

The food which CARE already has in Berlin, plus the $15,000,000 surplus food which Secretary of Agriculture Benson is sending, could be delivered to interior East Germany in part by balloon with messages from groups of Americans. The messages, cost of ballooning, wrapping, etc., should of course be paid for by these Americans, since Ike is trying to balance the budget and since no gesture of friendship is worth anything unless it costs some time and effort.

The important thing to remember in the European picture is that now may be the period we have been waiting for—when one of the top Soviet leaders has been purged and when the great Soviet empire is beginning to crack at the seams.

But in all international situations, the wave of restlessness must be ridden on its crest, it must not be allowed to subside. This is the only way eventual war can be prevented.

Reports of Riots by Anti-Reds Seemingly Are Exaggerated

By PETER EDSON

Washington — (NEA) — Confidential reports reaching Washington now indicate that many stories about uprisings against Communist authorities in Russian satellite countries have been greatly exaggerated.

The stories of strikes and riots in East Germany are fully confirmed by authoritative eyewitness accounts and admissions of the Communist — controlled East German newspapers themselves.

Reports from the satellite countries, however, are mostly attributed to refugees fleeing from rumored disturbances elsewhere.

Checks on some of the reported riots in Poland and Czechoslovakia have failed to produce confirmation. The United States has diplomatic missions in both these countries with direct access to some sources of information. They have verified first-hand that there was much grumbling over recent Czech currency revaluation and new price controls. But there have been no revolts against the Czech government yet. Reports of battles against Soviet tanks in Poland have like wise not been confirmed.

The government shake-up and reforms in Hungary were officially announced in Budapest and confirmed by American observers there. The United States has no missions in Bulgaria and Albania. But there have been no reports of serious trouble there, nor in Romania, where there is a U. S. diplomatic mission.

Washington officials see considerable danger in creating too much false confidence in this country that the Communist empire is breaking up.

Now It's the Bunny Hop

What the Republicans have that the Democrats didn't have is — among other things — the Bunny Hop. This brand new dance hit is the rage with the Washington younger set under the new administration, according to capital society band leaders. The number calls for a conga chain kind of line-up.

Sidney, who batons for some of the capital's best debs, reports that when college students get going on the Bunny Hop at Chevy Chase country club parents stop dancing to watch.

Meyer Davis, another socialite tune-maker and Jack Morton, who handles the down-beat at Congressional and Kenwood country clubs, confirm these statistics of the latest dance rage.

Antitrust Moves

Believers in a much milder U. S. antitrust policy were delighted by Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell's selection of the two men to head his new National Committee to Study the Antitrust Laws. The co-chairman will be Asst. Atty. Gen. Stanley N. Barnes, now head of the Department of Justice Antitrust Division under Mr. Brownell, and Prof. S. Chesterfield Oppenheim of University of Michigan Law School.

Believers in a tough antitrust law enforcement policy were equally dismayed by this appointment. Assistant Attorney General Barnes, though a California Superior Court judge before coming to Washington, had no previous connections with antitrust law cases. This of course gives him an open mind on the subject, and makes him an unprejudiced co-chairman.

On the other hand, Prof. Oppenheim has definite ideas favoring reform of the antitrust laws. A year ago he wrote an article for Michigan Law Review. In it he made 19 major recommendations for overhaul of antitrust laws and elimination of overlapping jurisdiction between Department of Justice and Federal Trade Commission.

This article led a general movement among chambers of commerce and bar associations for changing the antitrust laws. At that time Prof. Oppenheim advocated a privately financed committee to advise Congress on writing a new antitrust policy.

Instead of following this program, Attorney General Brownell chose to name a government commission which would be under his control, to make the study. No announcement has yet been made on whether members of Congress will serve on his commission. The membership will be named in August, at which time it will be known whether any advocates of more vigorous antitrust policies will be included, to present their point of view.

Egyptian Wheat Deal

It was a cute $11 million deal by which the U. S. Department of Agriculture got rid of six million bushels of surplus wheat through a sale to the Greek government, which in turn will sell it to the government of Egypt. Now is raised the very pertinent question of why the U. S. couldn't sell it direct to Egypt in the first place, without Greek middlemen?

The explanation is that Egypt had used up its purchase quota under the International Wheat Agreement, but still wanted to buy more. Greece, on the other hand, had not used up its quota. So the deal was made for the U. S. to sell to Greece, for resale to Egypt.

By this double play, Egypt was able to buy at around $1.80 a bushel. If the Egyptians had gone into the open market, they would have had to pay the current price of around $2. Or if they waited till after July 31, when the new wheat agreement goes into effect, the price would be $2.05.

'Who's Hungry?'

The World Today--

ROK Army Makes Great Story

By DON WHITEHEAD

(For James Marlow)

(Editor's Note: Don Whitehead observed the South Koreans of whom he writes here at close range in the first year of the Korean War. He returned to the embattled peninsula last winter with the then President-elect, Dwight D. Eisenhower. His coverage of that trip won him a second Pulitzer Prize.)

WASHINGTON — One of the great stories of the Korean War is coming through censorship today if you read between the lines of dispatches describing the heavy fighting by South Korean troops. It is the story of an army that was born, trained, equipped and given muscle in a span of just three years, now receiving its supreme test.

Three years ago it would have been fantasy even to speculate the South Koreans would be able to come back fighting after being hit by a 100,000-man Red offensive. Most U. S. military men in Korea would have laughed at such a suggestion.

This young Army has reeled back under the heavy blows. It has shown it is not yet ready to "go it alone" without the United Nations Allies. It has shown serious weaknesses under the white heat of combat. But it is still fighting.

Associated Press Correspondent John Randolph reports from Seoul: "The ROKs, although this was their best effort to date, still have a long way to go before they are a truly steady and dependable army—despite many small unit displays of heroism and gallantry."

But the dispatches also reveal the progress that the ROKs have made from the "paper army" stage of 1950.

The ROKs weren't trained or equipped for heavy combat when the war began. Their Army fell apart when the North Koreans attacked.

In Gen. Douglas MacArthur's big November drive toward the Yalu that year, the 8th Army was thrown into retreat by the collapse and disintegration of an ROK corps. When this corps fell apart under the massive Chinese assault, the entire army was in peril. Only a gallant stand of the 2nd Infantry Division to hold open an escape corridor prevented a worse disaster.

In those days the Americans had little confidence in the ROKs. They didn't trust them when the pressure was turned on.

But confidence has been growing in the ROKs in past months. This was largely due to the training program built up by Gen. James A. Van Fleet when he took command of United Nations forces in 1951. Van Fleet saw possibilities in the ROKs if they were trained and properly equipped. He set about to see that it was done.

Acting at times in direct violation of orders, Van Fleet overhauled this training program for strength beyond the point approved by the Pentagon. In other words, he turned a horde into an army. True, it's a young army with many faults and weaknesses—particularly in leadership. But without this Army the U. N. forces never could have hoped to stay in Korea. It is an army that was built literally at the cannon's mouth.

At Panmunjom the Reds again talk of signing a truce—while Chinese reinforcements are massing again in front of the South Koreans on the Eastern Front.

This could be another crisis approaching for the ROK Army and the ability of the ROKs to hold their ground may give the final answer to the success of all the U. N. forces if the fighting continues.

Surgery Still Best Cure For Goiter, Gland Trouble Cause

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Written for NEA Service

The thyroid is a gland of internal secretion which lies in the front of the neck, sometimes extending down under the upper portion of the breastbone. It does not have a duct or passageway to empty its secretions and therefore its hormone is absorbed directly into the blood.

When behaving normally, the thyroid produces just the right amount of secretion for the needs of the body. Among other things, it helps to regulate the action of the heart and also to keep the heart beat regular. If the thyroid gland starts misbehaving it may produce either too much secretion or a secretion which is abnormal.

The result is the development of a condition which is known as goiter of which there are several kinds. Other names for this condition are Graves' disease and von Basedow's disease.

Ordinarily, in a toxic goiter the thyroid becomes somewhat enlarged. The other symptoms vary but the most common besides enlargement are a rapid heart rate, bulging eyes, trembling of the hands, nervousness and loss of weight. Sometimes these symptoms alone are enough to make a diagnosis. Almost always, however, doctors wish to have a metabolism test taken which measures more accurately the degree to which the thyroid is overactive. This is done early in the morning before eating. It is entirely painless.

Discovery Important

Toxic goiters should be discovered as soon as possible before it has produced damage which may be difficult or slow to overcome. The most common form of treatment has been surgery. This involves an operation in which part of the thyroid tissue is removed, leaving only enough to supply the normal needs of the body.

Now some other methods besides surgery have begun to be used for toxic goiter. Drugs of the thiouracil family have been used with success in some cases. Radioactive iodine is also a useful medical treatment. Not all patients with toxic goiter can be successfully treated medically, however, and surgery probably will continue to be used for at least some patients for a long time.

Movie Stars Will Entertain 45,000 Scouts

JAMBOREE CITY, Calif. (AP)—Hollywood stars came to Jamboree City today to entertain 45,000 Boy Scouts and their leaders who spent a full day yesterday which included a speech by Vice President Nixon and a huge religious convocation.

Sunday this 3,000-acre ranch bulged with an estimated 96,000 visitors, here to view the colorful site of the third national Scout Jamboree. Many of the guests were relatives of scouts.

Today's program included an afternoon "variety review" with Dorothy Lamour, Dick Powell, June Allyson, Jerry Colonna, Bill Sisters and other entertainers scheduled to take part. In another afternoon show the scheduled entertainers included Spade Cooley, Roscoe Ates, magicians, square dance champions and animal acts. The program also included a big navy and marine air show.

Last night Nixon told the scouts: "You have been taught and have learned your own minds to be free-free to speak your own minds to live your own lives and to worship God in your own way."

You have not been instilled with the shameful arrogance of the dictatorial mind, the intense hatred and the bigotry of those of your contemporaries behind the Iron Curtain who since yesterday have been taught to hate and to fear and to be contemptuous.

"Let us work toward the day when Boy Scout leaders from all the nations of the world may be able to gather together with you at just such an annual jamboree. The cause of brotherhood and peace on this earth could receive no greater testimony."

The religious program began after Nixon spoke. To symbolize the meeting of many faiths, statements were made by representatives of four faiths, Protestant, Catholic, Mormon and Jewish. The convocation closed with each of the thousands of scouts on the hillside lighting a candle to symbolize the scout oath.

St. Louis Mayor Again Appeals For Strike End

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mayor Raymond R. Tucker has appealed again for an end to the nine-week-old strike of building material truck drivers and accused the AFL Teamsters Union of quibbling over technicalities.

The union rejected a proposal by the mayor that the dispute go into arbitration and suggested instead further negotiations with the new sessions to be held in public.

The mayor, in his statement yesterday, said the union apparently rejected arbitration of the wage and working condition dispute because of one clause in the plan—"only because of a single, rather technical disagreement."

Union spokesmen said they objected to the plan because it didn't provide adequate safeguards for union interests. Specifically, they said, they want an accountant to examine books of the building material dealers involved in the walk-out.

The mayor replied that such an examination should be handled by the arbitration board if the members feel it is necessary.

The companies have said they don't want their books examined, explaining that their financial situation has no bearing on their refusal to agree to the union's demand for higher pay.

The dealers' association accepted the mayor's arbitration plan.

Five hundred drivers, members of the Teamsters, still are on strike. About 27,000 other construction workers have been idle because of a lack of materials.

The Teamsters and the Home Builders Association settled their part of the walkout Saturday. Under the agreement those drivers get a 15-cent hourly increase immediately and 5 cents next year under a two-year contract. This brings their pay to a range from $1.80 to $2 an hour.

Another strike, that of 1,000 AFL ironworkers against the Associated General Contractors, was settled over the weekend.

Boy Admits Stealing More Than 40 Cars To Replace Bus Ride

DETROIT (AP)—A 17-year-old youth told Detroit police that he stole more than 40 automobiles to get home because he stayed out late and buses stopped running.

Charles J. Fortuna Jr. of Southfield Township and three juveniles he identified as car-taking pals were held without formal charge.

Detective John Leonard said Fortuna told this story:

The youth's family moved from its long-time Detroit residence to a suburb in Southfield Township. Charles liked to visit his pals back in Detroit and to go to movies in the old neighborhood. Usually by the time he was ready to go home it was too late to catch a bus, so he took a car.

While the youths admitted more than 40 thefts, Leonard said police could find only 30 reported cases they could trace to them.

Most of the traceable thefts, Fortuna's old neighborhood, and many of the car recoveries were near Fortuna's home in Southfield Township. In none of the traceable thefts were the cars damaged.

A boy picked up for questioning Friday spilled the beans.

Secrecy In Government Takes Beating In Number of States

CHICAGO (AP)—Secrecy in government took a trimming in many state legislatures this year.

Lawmakers took action that had the effect of reducing the total area of secrecy by opening the doors to records and meetings connected with the public's business.

There is a movement among newsmen to make sure that the people can be kept fully informed about what is going on in government. It is dedicated to the principle that the people have the right to know.

A survey by the Associated Press shows that foes of secrecy made noteworthy progress in the long 1953 state lawmaking season now virtually ended.

Here is a brief summary of some of the actions by legislatures:

TENNESSEE—Approved a bill requiring local school boards to hold open meetings when acting on any matter involving public funds.

IDAH0—Adopted a law stating all meetings of county, city and school boards at which final actions are taken must be open to the public.

OHIO—Approved a bill requiring open meetings of all state boards, commissions and agencies.

CALIFORNIA—Adopted legislation requiring open meetings by local governing bodies, and declaring a state policy of public access to public records.

INDIANA—Enacted an anti-secrecy law making it the state's policy to keep official records open to public inspection.

MARYLAND—Killed a "gag" bill that would have forbidden law enforcement officers to talk with newsmen (for publication) about a criminal case before it came to trial.

The number of states that have opened their welfare rolls to public inspection rose to 22.

They include Illinois, Kansas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Missouri.

Right-to-know reverses included these actions by legislatures:

NORTH CAROLINA—Changed the state's budget act to permit the appropriations committee and

Chairman Milikin (R-Colo.) of the Senate Finance Committee said he hasn't polled the group and doesn't know how it will stand on this issue.

Without mentioning the likelihood of having to seek a raise in the debt limit, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey predicted yesterday that bigger business earnings and higher national income will lift government receipts to a second successive peak in the year which started July 1.

Federal revenue, Humphrey said, should climb to 68 1/2 billion dollars compared with the record $65,200,000,000 in the year which ended June 30. Nevertheless, he added, "continued vigorous cooperative effort . . . will be required to reduce expenditures to the point where we will obtain a balance between receipts and expenditures."

Humphrey blamed spending programs inherited from the Truman administration for the grim fiscal picture.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) in a weekend statement, estimated that government income next year would be about 64 billion—or 4 1/2 billions less than the Humphrey estimate. He put probable spending at 74 billion and said Congress will have to raise taxes next year or face a deficit of about 10 billion dollars.

Byrd said that unless there are substantial changes in the world situation, the outlook for the fiscal year starting in mid-1954 is going to be as bad as this year's "and maybe worse."

The present national debt is nearly $272 1/2 billion dollars. The present legal debt limit was set after World War II at a figure 25 billion under the wartime peak of 300 billion.

Files Divorce Suit For the Tenth Time

LOS ANGELES (AP)—For the 10th time since 1940 Susan B. Harshman, 42, has filed suit for divorce from Harry T. Harshman, also 42, a retired real estate broker.

The Harshmans were married Feb. 29, 1940. She filed her first divorce suit the following October, then dismissed it.

She since has filed—and dropped—divorce actions in 1942, 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1950 and 1952.

Ike Nears Crossroads On US Debt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration comes to a financial crossroads today, its evident plans to lift the federal debt limit threatened by Democratic opposition.

In advance of a meeting of GOP leaders with President Eisenhower to discuss the situation, Sen. George D-Go said he might not go along on an expected proposal to raise the present 275 billion dollar ceiling.

"There will be some opposition to increasing the debt limit, mainly on the ground that the only way to cut spending is to keep the present limit," George said.

He added that he personally remains to be convinced that the action has to be taken now despite the narrow margin by which the present debt comes below the statutory limit.

Chairman Milikin (R-Colo.) of the Senate Finance Committee said he hasn't polled the group and doesn't know how it will stand on this issue.

Without mentioning the likelihood of having to seek a raise in the debt limit, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey predicted yesterday that bigger business earnings and higher national income will lift government receipts to a second successive peak in the year which started July 1.

Heavy Rains, Floods, Texas Still Too Dry

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Hit-and-miss heavy rains have caused flash floods in Texas during the past week. Yet a federal soil expert says the state's worst drought is unbroken.

A similar situation was reported in Oklahoma good rains, but not enough.

Louis P. Merrill of Fort Worth, U. S. Soil Conservation Service regional director, said today locally torrential downpours have been "immensely helpful." But he said it will take more general rains over a longer period to end the drought—in its fourth year in parts of Texas.

Some of the heaviest downpours yesterday drenched parts of west Texas, declared a drought disaster area and eligible for emergency federal help.

But the thunderstorms were spotty.

Merrill said he doubted whether more than 15 or 20 of 132 drought disaster counties in west, north and south Texas have had rain.

The soil expert said, however, recent rains have greatly helped cotton, feed crops and ranges and have filled dry stock watering ponds.

Light scattered sprinkles which started June 30 developed a week ago into frequently heavy thunderstorms in west, north and east Texas.

The Canadian River was running bankfull in the Texas Panhandle.

Yesterday's big rains in drought-hurt west Texas included 4.80 inches at Wellington, 3.6 at Pampa, 5 at Jerteno and 3.74 at Lefors. But Amarillo, in the center of the Panhandle, received a piddling .04 inch.

Friday and Saturday thunderstorms caused serious flood threats at Fort Worth, Fort Davis, Abilene and Albany. Many families were evacuated.

Oklahoma ranchers reported two weeks of rain, including as much as 5 inches in some sections Saturday, will revive wilted grass and fill dry stock ponds. However, observers said much more rain was needed to revive subsoil moisture.

Oklahoma farmers were preparing soil to plant fall feeds. Kay County officials have canceled requests for federal drought aid for farmers and ranchers.

Some Oklahoma cities have lifted restrictions on water use as lakes started filling again.

Former Cabinet Member, Tobin Dies at His Home

SCITUATE, Mass. (AP)—Former Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, onetime Democratic governor of Massachusetts and twice mayor of Boston, died of a heart attack in the arms of his wife at their summer home here yesterday. He was 52.

He had played 18 holes of golf the day before and had retired shortly before midnight in apparent good health and spirits.

He arose about 7 a.m. and made three telephone calls. One of the calls was to the telephone operator to learn the correct time. It was 7:28.

As it was more than an hour before he was scheduled to attend Sunday mass, Tobin, his wife said, returned to bed and was reading the newspaper in his pajamas when he suddenly gasped for breath.

His wife ran to his side and put her arms around him to hold him in an upright position.

Medical Examiner Herbert N. Blanchard pronounced death due to a heart attack. Members of Tobin's family said the ex-secretary of labor had known for 18 months that he suffered a heart condition but never slowed his pace.

It was reported in Boston, where Tobin lived, that he planned to run as Democratic candidate for governor in next year's election.

In Independence, Mo., former President Harry Truman said: "He was a fine man. He was a great mayor of Boston, a great governor of Massachusetts and he made one of the best secretaries of labor the country ever had. I'm shocked. The country is losing a very great man and I hate to see this happen. His family has all my sympathy."

Tobin served in Truman's Cabinet for four years and five months, beginning in August 1948.

Address Given Here by Tobin

Maurice J. Tobin, secretary of labor in the Truman cabinet, who died of a heart attack at his summer home at Scituate, Mass., Sunday, was personally known to many Sedalians, especially in the labor circles. He made an address here during the campaign of Truman for the presidency in 1948.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

NAVY'S OLDEST SHIP MAY BE DOOMED—The Constellation, oldest ship in the U. S. Navy about two months older than its sister ship, the Constitution, lies rotting in the Charlestown, Mass. Navy Yard. The 176-year-old vessel fought in the War of 1812, Civil War, against the French privateers and the Tripoli pirates. It cost about $314,000 to build, but it is estimated that more than $4,500,000 would be needed to reconstruct it. A campaign is underway to raise money by public subscription to save the historic ship and return it to Baltimore, Md., its original home.

Bob Thomas In Hollywood— Ida Lupino Directs Herself And Ex-Hubby's Wife In Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The lady checked the scene and ordered the cameramen to "roll 'em!" She stepped before the camera, acted out a tense scene, then announced "Cut! Print it!"

This was the signal that Ida Lupino the director had approved a scene performed by Ida Lupino the actress. In this confusing situation, only Ida's calm, sure hand keeps the whole thing from ending in chaos.

The fact is that Ida is directing herself in "The Bigamist." She's also directing her ex-husband's wife, Joan Fontaine, but that's another story altogether.

Between takes, she becomes Ida the director, so I sat down for a talk with that side of her personality.

"How do you like directing Miss Lupino?"

"I hate it."

"What's the matter—she hard to get along with?"

"No, no, dear, it's not that. I just can't do my best when I'm directing myself. When I'm doing a scene, I can feel myself going higher than a kite in my mind. I need a restraining hand."

Unfortunately, she can't supply it when she's in the scene herself. So she has an observer in Edmund O'Brien, who plays the busy fellow married to both Ida and Joan in the picture.

"I honestly didn't want to direct this picture," she remarked. "It was all Joan's idea. When she heard that I was playing the other wife, she agreed to be in it—if I would direct. So I agreed, and had only five days to prepare for the picture."

"Now I'm going around in circles. At night I have to line up the next day's shots and somehow learn my lines too. I'll never direct myself again."

Next she tackles another unique situation. She's going to direct her husband, Howard Duff, in "The Cop," which Ida also happened to write.

"I didn't want to do that one either," she commented. "But Howard insisted."

Many a star has blown up at the director. I asked Ida if she didn't think it was dangerous to direct one's own husband.

"I don't think so, dear," she replied. "Especially since it was Howard's idea, not mine. He can only blame it on himself."

Ida's only concern is what the critics will say about directing herself.

"They will probably roast me to a turn," she commented. "The East-ern critics, I mean. They have always considered that it was something of a joke for a woman to direct a picture. Many of the Western critics have been kinder, and the Eastern ones weren't too bad on 'The Hitchhiker,' which I directed. But usually I take a beating."

This whole situation presents a problem to reviewers. Supposing they say something like, "Miss Lupino rose above her direction." It has all kinds of possibilities.

Capsule Review: "Ride, Vagabond" puts a stellar cast through the paces of the standard Western plot. This one presents a talkative bandit chief (Anthony Quinn), his gun-slinging henchman (Robert Taylor), a beleaguered rancher (Howard Keel) and his generally faithful wife (Ava Gardner). The conflict arises because of the outlaw-settler struggle and the Taylor-Gardner-Keel triangle. The film often bogs down in philosophical talk, but picks up when the action takes over. Quinn overshadows the cast in a showy role, but Keel manages a quietly competent performance.

Nidar's Captain Says Nationalists Pirated His Ship

HONG KONG (AP)—Capt. Antonio Marques, whose steamship Nidar fell into the hands of the Chinese Nationalists last December, claimed today his ship was seized by a Nationalist warship on the high seas.

Chiang Kai-shek's Marine Department and Foreign Office, he said, announced later that the 2,700-ton Nidar had been pirated by its crew and taken to Formosa.

Marques, in a signed article in the Hong Kong Standard, denied this and asserted that Nidar actually was intercepted on Dec. 17 by a Nationalist gunboat and forced to proceed to Kaohsiung, south Formosa.

The Nidar flew the Panama flag and was owned by the British-Norwegian firm, Wallem and Company of Hong Kong.

It had 2,000 tons of scrap iron aboard consigned to Japanese ports.

Chiang's government later charged that the Nidar, under a previous captain, had engaged in trade with Red China. The Nationalists therefore claimed the ship and on June 9 ran up the Chinese Nationalist flag.

Old Custom

It still is the custom among sentimental European peasantry to place the bridal finery in a chest, and take it out again only for the purpose of shrouding the wife when she dies.

Three Teen-Agers Give Up Captive Deputy Sheriff

NEVADA CITY, Calif. (AP)—Three teen-agers who "were rough, even the girl" are in jail today after surrendering themselves and their captive deputy sheriff to an armed 30-man posse yesterday.

At one point, Deputy Elmer Oates said, the girl "sat behind me and held a hunting knife across my throat."

He said when capture appeared imminent, one of the two boys yelled: "Let's shoot it out!" However, they surrendered meekly.

The three, booked at Nevada County Jail, are: June Charlotte Wood, 18, San Francisco; John Pearman, 18, Vallejo, Calif.; and Albert Gervais, 18, Oakland, Calif.

Their capture — about 75 miles west of Reno — ended a six-day spree which started Tuesday in San Francisco, where they boarded a bus "just to take a ride."

The ride, police said, has produced charges of kidnapping, armed robbery, car theft and escape from two law officers.

Oates was one of three officers captured by the youngsters Saturday when they were being questioned about an auto theft. The other two were handcuffed and left at a roadside.

Oates said he surprised and disarmed the three during the night in the woods but next morning they grabbed his gun back and he was once again a prisoner.

Finally, he said, they headed for the main highway, walked into the bristling muzzles of the posse and surrendered.

Beats Boat to Dock, But Police Object

DETROIT (AP)—Angelo Tiezzi fancies himself quite a swimmer. The 24-year-old Korean war veteran stood on the deck railing of an excursion steamer in the Detroit River and shouted: "I can beat this boat ashore."

He did, too, but as he swam up to the dock, police arrested him. His unorthodox manner of leaving so upset the other passengers, police said, that he'll be charged with disturbing the peace.

Nation Can Expect Another Steam Bath

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most of the nation was in for another steam bath today. Numerous thundershowers from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic Seaboard brought temporary relief from the heat, but not from the humidity.

Many early morning temperatures in the middle and high 70s boded another day like Sunday, when 90-degree readings were common throughout the Midwest, East and South.

From the Rockies westward, however, skies generally were clear and temperatures moderate.

Hottest spots Sunday were Thermal and El Centro in southeastern California, with 112 degrees.

Chimpanzees sometimes apparently recognize pictures of themselves.

Arnold and Whiz Kids Race to 15-4 Win Over SAFB Sunday

Sedalia's Win Feature Game of State

Semi-Pro Tourney at Night: Arnold

Goes 8 1/3 Innings With No Hitter

Due to the Little League sub-area playoff, there will be no Missouri Semi-Pro Baseball Tournament game Monday.

The next tournament contest will be Tuesday night between the Holden Chiefs and the Knob Noster Lions.

Both Holden and the Merchants are undefeated. The Chiefs blasted the Jeff City Twinkies, 16-1, in the tournament opener, and Knob Noster outlasted Iberia, 12-11, in an 11-inning track meet Saturday night.

By Dick Wade

Billy Arnold, the side-arming right-hander with the fine curve ball, recovered from a wobbly start to hurl 8 1/3 innings of no-hit baseball to spark the Sedalia Whiz Kids to a 15-4 victory over Sedalia Air Force Base in the lone night game on Sunday's Missouri Semi-Pro Tournament card.

The Airman had Arnold on the ropes in the first inning when they bunched all their hits and were aided by a walk and an error to score four runs.

With one away Bufo walked. Jeffers punched a single to center and Russell dropped a pop single to left - center to load the bases. Horst then blooped a pop fly behind first base, but Bobby Lane recovered the ball and got Bufo at the plate when he missed the base on his slide.

But then Wilson tripped to the 381-foot mark in right to clear the bases and came on in with the fourth run on an untrue relay throw.

From then on Arnold was invincible. He walked 4 and hit one batter, but fanned 11 and benefited by one double play.

The Whiz Kids, in the meantime, whittled away at Jack Bainbridge, the air base's Jack-of-all-trades, with one in the first and second and finally knotted the count by pushing across two in the fourth.

Sedalia went into the lead in the seventh when Manager George Thompson led-off with a two-bagger to left, went to third on a balk and scored on an error.

Generals 12--Red Birds 6

Sugar Creek 11--Iberia 3

Sunday Afternoon Games Both Runaway Races for Winners

In afternoon contests Sunday, the high-flying Springfield Generals became the first team in the tourney to win two victories by dumping the Jefferson City Redbirds, 12-6, and Sugar Creek ousted Iberia from the meet by handing it its second loss, 11-3.

The classy Generals wasted little time in putting the Redbirds in their place.

Four solid base hits and a like number of Jeff City errors allowed the winners to cross home plate five times.

They built the score to 8-0 in the third. Gaylord Enos opened the frame with a homer over the left field wall. F. A. Brown got a life on an error. Sam Richins doubled to score Brown, and Harrison Taylor singled to bring in Richins.

Another General run came across in the sixth on three walks and a passed ball, and they closed out their scoring with three runs in the eighth, all of which were driven-home by Enos' double with the bases full.

The Redbirds necked away at Springfield's starting moundman, Phil Kemp, for one in the fifth, two in the sixth and single tallies in the seventh and eighth.

Marx Closes The Door

The Generals brought in their relief ace, Joe Marx, in the eighth. He allowed one more run in the final frame.

One of the blows off Kemp was a homer with none on in the seventh. Redbird relief hurler Vanburen.

Sugar Creek simply had too much of everything for the Iberia Lions, obviously tired from the 12-11 marathon with the Knob Noster Merchants Friday night.

Iberia held up for three scoreless frames but cracked badly in the next three to fall behind, 7-0.

The losers made their way big in the eighth by putting together four straight singles by Malenberg, McDonald, Mitchell and Art Humphrey for their only runs.

Sugar Creek put things on ice in the ninth with two more runs.

Red Birds 5--Sugar Creek 4

Knob Noster 12--Iberia 11

Wildest Game In State Play In 18 Years On Saturday Nite

Jefferson City's Redbirds won a dramatic ninth-inning victory over Sugar Creek, 5-4, in the first Saturday night contest on the Missouri State Semi-Pro Tourney's card, but few fans remembered it after the second game of the evening closed.

In the nightcap the Knob Noster Merchants outlasted the Iberia Lions, 12-11, in an 11-inning contest which ran until 1:45 a. m. Sunday.

The Merchants-Iberia game may well be the wildest in the state tourney's 18 years. In it were 23 runs, 31 base hits, including three homers, eight errors, 18 walks and numerous passed balls and wild pitches.

The losers capitalized on 10 hits and six errors to build up a 10-3 lead at the end of 7 1/2-innings, then watched Knob Noster push across eight runs in the eighth to take an 11-10 lead, tied the count on an error with two down in the ninth and then lost the decision with one away in the bottom of the eleventh.

Whiz Kids Run Wild in 8th

They broke the game wide-open in the eighth by setting up a six-run merry-go-round. Sedalia made four hits in the frame including doubles by Jim Fall and Carl Miller. The Airmen made three errors in the inning and eight line-up changes - two men, Bainbridge and Jeffers, played three different positions in the frame.

To add insult to injury, the Whiz Kids pushed over four more in the top of the ninth. In the inning there were singles by Skip Schnitz, Don Higgins and Sonny Thomas and a two-bagger by Buck Bennett. SAFB also chipped in two more bobbles.

Fall led the 14-hit Sedalia batting attack with three for five. Sonny Thomas had two for two and Miller, George Thompson and Higgins had two safeties each.

Thompson cleared the bench in the ninth, using pitchers Skip Schnitz and Don Deiph and brother Charlie Thompson as pinch hitters.

Bainbridge buried the first seven innings for SAFB; he was relieved by Gene Rowles with none out in the eighth and Jeffers replaced Rowles shortly afterward. Bainbridge was the loser.

Callahans Know What Balanced Farming Can Do

What Balanced Farming has done for the J. E. Callahan family of near Mendon in Chariton County it can do for most any Missouri farm family. And visitors to the farm 65 miles north of Sedalia on Tuesday, July 28, for the 1953 Missouri Balanced Farming Action Day will see what Balanced Farming has done for the Callahans.

The Callahans purchased their 240-acre farm in 1944 and have been developing their Balanced Farming plan the past six years. Like most Missouri farm families carrying out such a system of farming, they were interested in obtaining higher production — the key to increased income — and better family living. They've achieved these objectives during the past few years.

Balanced Farming for the Callahans is centered around livestock production. Hogs are the major enterprise. Their 25 sows produce 50 litters annually running from 400 to 500 fat hogs. Crop production on the farm is geared for efficient hog production. Three 30-acre fields are used in a rotation of corn, oats and clover to provide clean ground and grain for the hogs.

In addition to hogs, the Callahans' livestock enterprise includes 30 beef cows and 50 ewes, and a laying flock of 350 hens. Without their Balanced Farming system of farming, the farm would not be able to support such a large livestock program.

Improved pasture and complete soil treatments are an integral part of the Callahans' Balanced Farming program. They have tested all their soil as a guide in obtaining maximum production, and in addition have developed an extensive water management system to reduce erosion and conserve moisture and fertility. Most of the terracing is complete and good waterways and structures have been constructed along field boundaries. The remaining terraces needed to complete their water management system will be constructed during the Balanced Farming Action Day on July 28th.

Along with high production, the Callahans have concentrated on better family living. They have modernized their home, installed a pressure water system, and are now building an addition to their home for a modern kitchen, downstairs bathroom and utility room. Landscaping has added greatly to the appearance of the farmstead which was planned for efficiency in carrying out their farming operations.

If you would like to see all this plus many more features, plan now to attend the Missouri Balanced Farming Action Day on

Work to Get 26 Counties Added to List

Designation of 32 Missouri counties to the drought disaster area was made July 15 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower, according to Murray C. Colbert, chairman of the Missouri State Drought Disaster Committee.

Colbert went on to say that this list excludes 26 other counties recommended by the Disaster Committee as needing complete or partial assistance and that agricultural agencies and farm organizations in the state are now working on getting the area extended.

Counties in the area as announced by the president include: Barry, Barton, Camden, Carter, Christian, Dade, Dallas, Douglas, Hickory, Greene, Howell, Iron, Jasper, Laclede, Lawrence, Macon, McDonald, Miller, Newton, Oregon, Ozark, Phelps, Polk, Pulaski, Reynolds, Ripley, Shannon, Stone, Taney, Texas, Webster, Wright.

In these counties, Colbert said, farmers will be eligible for disaster assistance in the form of emergency loans and reduced prices for livestock feed. County disaster committees will be organized at the local level to determine a farmer's eligibility for assistance and to handle the shipment of emergency feed and hay supplies.

These committees will be composed of the county Production and Marketing Administration committee, local Farmers Home Administration representative, the county extension agent, a local farmer, and a local banker.

PMA Elections On July 31 Take On Importance

The coming election of Production and Marketing Administration community and county committees to be held in each Missouri county on July 31 takes on added importance with the Secretary of Agriculture's announcement that a producer referendum on wheat quotas will be held the middle of August and that wheat acreage allotments will be in effect for the 1954 crop.

Committees elected by the eligible county farmers will have the responsibility for the administration of these allotments and quota programs as well as the price-support programs, the Agricultural Conservation Program, the wheat crop insurance program, and other special programs for farmers as designated by this committee.

"With these big jobs already in progress and coming up for the next year, it behooves every eligible farmer for his own good and the good of all the farm programs administered by these committees, to get out and vote on Friday, July 31, for responsible, fair-minded farmers to do these jobs," asserts Robert W. Rissler, county PMA chairman.

A schedule of the voting places and time in each community will also appear in a later news release.

So highly prized is tobacco among the aborigines of North Australia that they will sell their girls and women to Japanese pearl fishers for a few sticks of trade tobacco.

Farmers Wanting To Know 1954 Wheat Allotment

Pettis County farmers are becoming exceedingly anxious to learn the average of their 1954 wheat allotment since plans are being made for plowing their wheat ground.

The chairman of the Pettis County PMA, Robert W. Rissler, advises that the Pettis County 1954 wheat acreage allotment will be received about the middle of this week and that soon thereafter or before the end of July the farm wheat acreage allotments will be mailed to the producers in the county. Each owner and tenant whose name appears on the county office wheat record as having an interest in any regular wheat producing farm will receive an allotment notice for that particular farm, reports Rissler.

The referendum for 1954 wheat marketing quota will be held on Friday, Aug. 14. Eligible voters will be those persons engaged in the production of wheat on farms having an allotment in excess of 15 acres plus any other farmers who intended to plant in excess of 15 acres. A list of eligible voters will be prepared at the county office for each voting place and vote will be ratified of eligibility and time and place for casting their vote, stated Rissler.

Poultrymen Can Save Time By Modernizing Their Laying Houses

Pettis County poultrymen can save both time and shoe leather this fall by modernizing the laying house this summer.

Probably the biggest saving in labor can be accomplished by installing automatic waterers at the laying house. Three hundred hens will consume approximately 20 tons of water per year. If water is carried, this means carrying 2,000 three-gallon buckets. Where a pressure system is in use on the farm, water can be put in the laying house at a surprisingly low cost, particularly at a low cost when figuring the hours of labor saved.

The second biggest step saver is twirling a feed room conveniently located in the laying house. The feed room may be made of one-inch poultry netting or a boxed-in room. A door should be provided so feed may be unloaded from outside the building. In addition, a door should lead from the feed room directly into the laying house. Adequate feed storage bins or barrels should be provided. Time can be saved by having the feed in a bin rather than having to empty from a sack each time the birds are fed.

In working with larger flocks, time and steps can be saved by providing for an egg handling and storage room right at the laying house. In this manner, the eggs are only carried to the egg room and from there are directly loaded from the egg room to go to market. Other labor and step savers in the laying house are using built-up litter, the use of droppings pits instead of droppings boards, automatic light switch, conveniently located nests, feeders and waterers, either a track and carrier or mechanical feeders.

Balanced Farming Notes

In Pettis County

By MERLE VAUGHAN
County Agent

Arnetts Have Excellent Wheat Yield

Mr. E. A. Arnett was at the office the other day and was asking if Mr. Coplen was ever back. He then went on to tell of coming to the office last summer to get help from Mr. Coplen in figuring his fertilizer needs for wheat.

Roy had asked him how much he wanted to grow per acre and he had answered 30 bushels. After some joking back and forth he had said well, make it 35 bushels then.

Anyway the yield he had to report that day was 46 bushels per acre of Pawnee wheat on a 20 acre field. The seed was Kansas grown and he used 250 pounds of 8-24-8 per acre.

Mr. Arnett went on to tell of a 3 acre lot where his brother, Earl Arnett produced 180 bushels and 10 pounds of Pawnee wheat or 60 bushels per acre.

Good Poultry Lot Arrangement at Floyd Egberts

I try to keep in touch with all parts of the County at all times. One group of leaders who help me with the job are the man and woman Farm Bureau board member from each township.

I am trying to visit them as I have the opportunity. Such a tour took me to the Floyd Egbert home south west of Green Ridge recently. The Egberts were not at home, but I took the opportunity to look around the farmstead a little bit.

Their poultry house arrangement is outstanding and I want to mention it here. There were a couple of trees in front of the hen house and a yard about as large as the house itself had been fenced off here. The old hens were kept in this house and yard.

The pullets were in 2 brooder houses and 2 range shelters in a small orchard about 50 yards away. The important thing to me was that the old hens were restricted and could not contaminate the entire premises. That way the pullets quarters can be in a new place each year, but do not need to be far from the buildings.

Jerry Vardeman Kills Hoppers with Poison Bait

We are getting a lot of good reports of results with sprays and bait for grasshopper control.

Jerry Vardeman sprayed around a corn field and then mixed up a poison bait formula and scattered it around the same area. He also scattered the bait around the barn lot where no spraying was done. Jerry felt he obtained better results with the bait than with the spray.

Jim Perry had helped Jerry work out the bait formula. Jerry said he wanted to try some molasses in part of the bait so Mr. Perry asked him to check and report whether he had a better kill with the molasses. He said just as good kills were made with the unsweetened as the sweetened material.

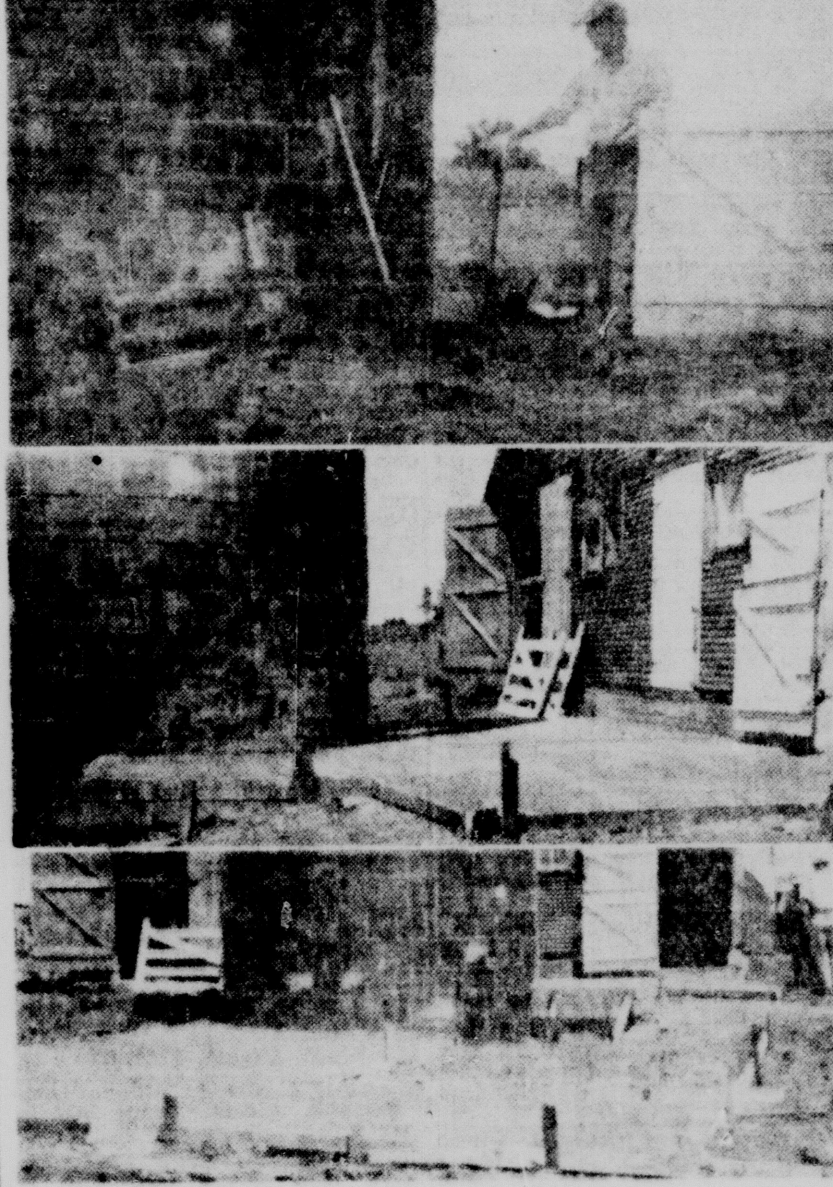

George Williams has good luck with Grasshopper Spraying. George Williams of Hughesville had called the office that he had to treat 15 acres of corn to save it from grasshoppers. I recommended Chlordane or Toxaphene.

George called back a few days later to say that he had experienced a very good kill on the 7 - 8 acres treated. He said the hoppers were laying dead right down the row. He used 2 pounds of toxaphene (emulsifiable concentrate) per acre.

Gen. Taylor Praises Bravery of Colombians

SEOUL (AP)—Today is Colombian independence day—and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor marked it by praising the gallantry of the Colombian battalion fighting in Korea.

The U. S. 8th Army commander sent a congratulatory message to the battalion commending "its splendid record of gallantry in the defense of freedom."

CLOYD MERK FEEDING FLOOR built at a cost of 16.8 cents per square foot. Pictured above are a "before shot" and two views of the concrete feeding floor that was put in at Cloyd Merks south of Smithton as a demonstration recently. The floor is 22 by 50 and includes the alleyway between the silo and the milking barn. It was poured four inches thick except a footing on the west and south side which was made about eight inches wide and eight inches deeper than the floor. No reinforcing was used, but six bags of cement and a minimum of 6 gallons of water were used for each yard of concrete. Costs included $133.50 for cement and gravel and $41 for labor and mixing, or a total of $174.50. Not counted was his own labor, his brother's and that of a neighbor with whom he trades work.

The top picture is of Mr. Merk standing in the alleyway mentioned above. In past years he hauled silage to the feed bunks with tractor and trailer. The second shot is of newly paved alley. Plans call for a row of feed bunks lined up to the little platform. Silage will be put in a cart, the wheels of which will run on the sides of the feed bunks. Feeding will start at the far end of the bunks and will be completed when the cart is empty again at the silo. The third view is of all the floor completed except the last section. The pouring took about five hours.

Farm Can Be Dangerous Spot For Workmen

Many agree that a farm is a good place to live—but national safety figures show that the farm can be an extremely dangerous place if safety practices are not observed.

Miss Amy Kelly, state extension agent and member of the National Safety Council, says that probably the most important person in farm safety is the homemaker. As wife and mother she can do much by her own habits and suggestions to make the home and the farm safer places for living.

Figures show not only that the homemaker suffers one-third of all serious accidents in the home but she is responsible for one-fourth of those which occur among children under 15 years old. These facts should make any woman stop, think and become safety-conscious every hour of the working day. A homemaker who is safety-conscious can literally be her family's guardian angel.

Good housekeeping itself is an aid to safety. By doing things in an orderly, unhurried manner, the homemaker can set standards of safety for her family. Good housekeeping in the home will carry over to tidiness and order in the barn and other buildings. An orderly system will be definitely prevent many a serious accident.

A reminder by a safety-conscious homemaker of a hazardous condition on the farm often will result in its being removed.

Every farm family can make a contribution to the Tenth National Farm Safety Week, which began July 19 and their safety by cleaning up the hazards on their own place.

Woman Collapses, Dies On Learning Husband Died In Car Plunge

ELKINS, W. Va. (AP)—William Jackson Bodkins, 69, was killed last night when his car plunged over a 75-foot embankment into a ravine east of here on U. S. 33.

State police who investigated called the victim's wife, Mrs. Grace Bodkins, 60, at her home in Parsons.

Mrs. Bodkins collapsed when told of her husband's death. She died 10 minutes after she was taken to Tucker County Hospital.

Nepal Envoy Confers With Indian Officials On Anti-Red Action

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Nepal's Prime Minister M. P. Koirala conferred here today with Indian officials on a "joint police action" against Communist-led rebels in his Himalayan country.

Arriving by plane yesterday from Kathmandu for a three-day visit, Koirala said the irregulars no longer had a free hand to operate in isolated western Nepal because Indian police had stepped in and India had allowed Nepalese troops to cross her territory to corner the bands.

He described the troublemakers as bandits and said they were under "some kind of red flag."

The Nepalese Embassy announced yesterday that armed rebels marching on southwest Nepal's important town of Dhangadhi had been routed and the situation was under control.

They Make Wedding A Hospital Affair

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Ann Harper, 17, stood at the bedside of John D. Sonzogni, 19, while the Rev. Thomas Haynes united them in marriage yesterday in Charleston General Hospital.

Ann and John already had obtained a marriage license when he suffered a broken neck in an automobile accident July 11. Coincidence put him in the same hospital where Ann worked as a nurse's aide. And, by coincidence, the minister was there, too, as a patient.

Steak Barbecue Brings Firemen, 2 Police Cars

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—The A. J. Andersons have a patio built atop their garage roof and were using it quietly yesterday when a fireman poked his head over the edge of the roof.

"Where's the fire?" he demanded. Waiting below in the street were two fire engines, a hook and ladder truck and two police cars. Then he saw the steaks sizzling on the Andersons' outdoor charcoal grill.

The head disappeared.

Safety Rules For Children On the Farms

It is a well known fact that farm youngsters and others enjoy the dangerous practice of playing and riding on tractors. Some parents allow their children to operate them. It is also a pretty well known fact that tractors are associated with more accidents than any other farm machinery. Less publicity has been given to the fact that many young children are injured and killed in tractor accidents.

A recent farm news story tells about a twelve-year old farm boy who was helping his father haul hay from one farm to another. The boy was operating the tractor alone. He misjudged a corner and the tractor tumbled over into a ditch, throwing him under the rear wheel. He suffered a broken pelvis, a cracked rib, and severe bruises on his face and body. This particular accident happened in Minnesota, but it is typical of what could happen in any area when children are allowed to drive tractors.

A survey of some newspaper clippings of farm accidents from May to December, 1952 produces the following facts:

1. 45 children were seriously injured or killed while operating farm machinery.

2. 35 children were operating tractors.

3. 17 children were killed and an 11 year old killed a 75 year old man.

All of these youngsters were 6 to 15 years old. Handling a tractor under most farm conditions requires mature skill, coordination and sound judgment which a 12 year old, or even older, does not have. Of course, children vary a great deal in these activities at certain ages, but youngsters are not allowed to drive automobiles in most states until they are 15 years of age.

Who Should Be Interested?

Everyone has a stake in the welfare of our youth today, but parents have a special concern in this matter. Parents are in the best position to be competent judges of whether their children are mature or not. Some parents have failed to exercise good judgment in the matter either because of a beautiful pride in their children or because of a shortage of help. Therefore, it is the duty of everyone concerned to accept this farm safety in any over-all safety program and especially during National Farm Safety Week.

Farm families of New York and Vermont annually tap about six million trees to provide three fourths of the maple syrup and sugar produced in the United States.

Allied Planes Get 1000th Red Warplane

TOKYO (AP)—Allied warplanes destroyed their 1,000th Communist plane over the weekend, the Air Force announced today.

The kill was credited to a Sabre jet pilot, Capt. Lonnie Moore, Fort Walton, Fla., who became a double ace yesterday by bagging his 10th MIG15 jet.

The milestone in three years of Korean warfare came as the fast Sabres knocked out nine Russian-built MIGs and screened an armada of fighter-bombers which pounded Red installations and troops.

By dusk, a grand total of 1,008 Red planes had been destroyed in the war, compared to U.N. air combat losses of 108 planes, including 56 Sabres. Other Allied losses were not reported.

Sabre jets have accounted for the greatest portion of the 1,008 total, destroying 795 MIGs since their initial victory in December 1950.

In addition, 38 MIG15s have been knocked down by other aircraft since an F80 Shooting Star destroyed the first MIG in November 1950, one month before the first Sabre-MIG battle.

Of those 38, F84 Thunderjets have knocked down 3, F80 Shooting Stars have destroyed a like number, and Australian Meteor jets and shore-based Marine F3D Skyknights have accounted for 3 each, giving a total of 817 MIGs destroyed by fighters.

The remaining 16 of the 833 MIGs destroyed are credited to gunners of the four-engine B29 Superforts, nearly all in the first 15 months of the war, when the B29s flew daylight missions.

Virtually all of the non-MIG scores have been against propeller-type aircraft, such as the Russian-built Yak9, Yak11, LA9 and LA11 fighters.

An additional 1,024 planes have been damaged and 175 probably destroyed.

AF Gets Data For Red Bombing From Refugees

WASHINGTON (AP)—Refugees streaming out of Russia and her satellites are providing the United States Air Force with some of its best information on where and how to set about retaliatory bombing if the U. S. S. R. should start war.

This information goes into voluminous records already amassed on target systems of the Soviet Union. It is in addition to equally important technical data on Russia's air fleet which becomes available through defection of such former Red military personnel as the two Polish fliers who escaped on recent occasions with jet fighters and have since traveled to the United States.

A quantity of the intelligence on Russian affairs and vulnerable spots in her defenses must be assumed to reach this country through normal commercial and industrial reports or through the covert channels of agent or espionage activity.

But augmenting that is material provided by interviews with refugees, the volume of which has increased steadily in recent months coincidental with the unrest of the Communist world.

Among other projects, the Air Force now has at hand a secret report on a study begun for it by Harvard University in 1950 and recently completed.

That study, made under contract with the Air Force, was intended to explore one phase of the broad subject of the targets and vulnerabilities of Russia—possible psychological and sociological impact of strategic bombing on the Soviet empire.

While there had been some previous brief mention of the project, the Air Force disclosed details for the first time in testimony before a Senate appropriations subcommittee released over the weekend.

Fire Losses Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Board of Fire Underwriters reported yesterday that national fire losses for the first six months of the year totaled $432,081,000, a 6.8 per cent increase over the same period of 1952.

Hal Boyle's Column— Little Blowhard, Family's Pet, Begins Mechanical Baby Talk

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Little Blowhard, the pet in our family, is four years old and at last is beginning to talk.

"Clankety clank" were his first words, and now he says them over and over. We would just as soon his vocabulary gets no larger, and actually would prefer for him to forget what he has already learned.

Baby talk is bad enough in human infants. In mechanical babies it is sometimes more than a fellow feels able to put up with.

And that's what Little Blowhard is—a mechanical baby. He is only our air conditioning machine. But, as pampered cats and dogs sometimes come to believe they are human beings, so it is with Little Blowhard.

No one has bothered to tell him he isn't a person, and certainly he acts more and more like a person as he gets older. One of the big differences between machines and people is that you are supposed to be able to predict better what machines will do.

Tested by this standard, Little Blowhard has moved over and joined the human race. Nobody can tell for sure what he will do next. He has a personality all of his own—stubborn and prideful—and like most children he responds to praise more quickly than to punishment.

For eight months of the year Little Blowhard dozes lazily and uselessly in his window corner, careless of mankind. He is strictly a hot weather fighter.

In June he begins to huff and puff, warming up for his battle against the summer heat. By July he is the king of what we call our "Keep Cool Room."

"Blow, Little Blowhard," says my wife, Frances, and he begins to purr softly.

"Oh, come now, you can do better than that," Frances coaxes. And so, put upon his mettle, Little Blowhard blows and blows, until we have a semi-arctic gale in the room.

It is silly, I suppose, for a man to be jealous of a machine. But Little Blowhard will do anything for my wife, absolutely nothing for me. If I turn him off, he keeps blowing cold air. If I turn him on, he sulks in silence, sneering up at me through his little brown ventilator as if to say, "Look at who wants to be air conditioned now! You certainly meet all kinds in this type of work."

Naturally, this burns me up. But what is even more galling than his disdain for me is the way he shows off for neighbors. All one has to do is pat him on his little brown head and say, "Well, well, how's Little Blowhard today?"—and the vain little smart alec will blow out a fuse trying to create a cold wave.

He blows out two fuses that way in one evening last week, bragging

London American Embassy Owner, Rich Duke, Dies

LOCH MORE, Scotland (AP)—The Duke of Westminster, landlord of the American Embassy in London and one of the world's richest men, died last night at his estate here. He was 74.

The peer, four times married and three times divorced, owned vast estates in Scotland, Wales and England, as well as about 600 acres of London's expensive Mayfair and Chelsea neighborhoods.

Only this year he bought an island in the Fraser River in British Columbia and launched an industrial development project estimated to cost 63 million pounds ($176,400,000).

His London holdings alone were valued at 20 million pounds ($56 million dollars) before World War II, and land values have increased greatly since then.

One of his biggest real estate deals was the letting of a long lease on part of Grosvenor Square—London's "Little America"—to the American government.

300 Witnesses Felled by Heat At Convention

NEW YORK (AP)—Heat felled more than 300 Jehovah's Witnesses yesterday as 82,861 members of the sect jammed Yankee Stadium for the opening of their eight-day New World Society Assembly.

At one time the heat inside the big Bronx stadium was 92 although the official heat reading outside was 81.

The heat prostration cases were treated in both grandstand and bleachers as well as at first aid emergency stations. None of the victims was reported in serious condition.

More thousands of Witnesses were expected to trek to the stadium today for the assembly's second-day program, which emphasizes the group's international scope. Delegates are here from 96 countries outside the United States.

Yesterday's opening of the assembly presented a Yankee Stadium transformed from the home of the traveling New York Yankees to a kingdom hall, the Jehovah's Witness term for a church.

Flowers ringed the infield; and the pitching mound bloomed as a formal garden. A green-boughed speakers' platform was placed

Swan Lake Will Get Pair of Namesakes

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—It's embarrassing, that's what it is. The situation at Richmond's Swan Lake, we mean. No swans.

Plenty of boats to boat in, plenty of fish to fish for, and a pretty lighted fountain in the middle—these Swan Lake has got. But no swans.

Not for long, though. A local radio station is going to present the city with a couple—Fluff and Puff—in special ceremonies today on the lake shore.

Novelist Will Wed Broadcaster Thursday

LONDON (AP)—J. B. Priestley, British novelist and playwright, announced today he will marry Mrs. Macquetta Hawkes, 42-year-old broadcaster, Thursday.

Mrs. Hawkes' husband, a professor at Oxford University, won a divorce from her last month. He charged she committed adultery with Priestley.

The writer, 59, was divorced by his second wife last year. His first wife died in 1925.

JAMBOREE CITY, Calif. (AP)—Scout Adviser Frank Williams of Roanoke, Va., turned barber at the national jamboree camp to give 15 of his scouts Mohawk Indian haircuts—that's a shaved head except for a lock of hair running down the middle.

"They got the idea they wanted to look like Indians because they're here in the West," says Williams.
